The following were nominated to-day: For President, Thomas B. McAdams, of Richmond; H. N. Phillips, of Williamsburg; and E. F. Miller, of Lynchburg.

The nominations for vice-president are: W. B. Vest, Newport News; C. E. Tiffany, Warrenton; V. Valden, Farmington; J. M. Bell, Abingdon; W. Meade Addison, Richmond.

Walker Scott, of Farmville; and L. M. von Schilling, of Hampton, were placed in nomination for secretary. It is believed the former will be elected.

Congressman Edward B. Vreeland, of the National Monetary Commission, spoke before the bankers this morning upon proposed banking and currency legislation. By request Mr. Vreeland delivered the same speech he made at the annual meeting of the Richmond Chapter of the American Institute of Banking.

Oliver J. Sands, president of the American National Bank, Richmond, was elected unanimously to represent the Virginia bankers upon the executive committee of the American Bankers' Association.

Support for Home Companies.

At the afternoon session a resolution was introduced by J. R. Keller, of Atlanta, secretary of the Association of Southern Fire Insurance Companies, calling upon the people of the South to support their home companies and improve local economic conditions.

It was authoritatively stated that only 10 per cent of the annual fire insurance is written in home companies. Three hundred bankers and their wives sat down to dinner to-night, it being the eighteenth banquet of the Virginia Bankers' Association. N. P. Gatliff, former president of the association, presided. He spent most of the time telling of the wet ground he had in his overcoat, soaked by heavy showers and chilled by the night air.

Hanley's disappearance, April 20, a few months after his brilliant marriage, caused a sensation. It was supposed that an attack of grip had unbalanced his mind and he was sought far and wide, circulars being sent all over the country by the police and the Knights of Columbus.
